

Improving Sidewalks SB Project

Sidewalk improvement was selected as the 1961 student body project by convocation ballot Thursday.

Solicitations will be held next week, Monday through Saturday. A door-to-door canvass will be made in the dormitories, and students living off-campus will be contacted.

GOAL FOR the project has been set at $2,000. "The Roarin' Twenties—Wartburg Style" will be the theme of this year's carnival, which will be held April 8.

Widening the sidewalk between Luther Hall and Old Main and raising the walk in front of the Student Union would probably be among the first considerations for this year's project, according to Business Manager Herbert Engelbrecht.

LAST YEAR'S student body project was the remodeling of the Little Theater for a recreational center, the purchase of a colored television set for the Union and installation of lights on the tennis courts.

Student body projects in other years have been such things as the PA system in the cafeteria, landscaping, furnishing the Vollmer Hall lounge and movie equipment.

General chairmen this year are seniors Ed Scharlau and Bob Steigerwaldt. Junior Lynn Meier is in charge of the carnival.

Galen Hora Gets Vice Presidency

Al Snook is next year's student body president, and Darlene Nimtz is the new secretary as a result of yesterday's elections.

Defeated were Galen Hora, who will now be the student body vice president next year, and Cathy Gammelin.

"It was a real good race," emphasized this year's president, Fred Mai, when he announced the winners last night.

TENSION WAS HIGH among the four candidates before the announcement. Eventual president Snook said once, "It's been a long, hard campaign," and these were his first words after the announcement.

"Between the two of us, we'll see if we can make any improvements in student government," said Snook. "But it's not only the two of us. It's up to the students. Student government is what they make it."

Hora concurred, "I'll place all my support behind Al. I'll work with him in everything."

MISS NIMTZ WAS surprised when Mai announced her name as next year's secretary.

"I can't even think. I was so set to face it all so calmly in case I lost," said Miss Nimtz. "I'll try to do the best I can next year and try to live up to the students' faith in me."

Snook, speaking for Hora and himself, said, "We'd like to thank all the guys in back of us."

Miss Nimtz also added that she'd like to thank all her supporters.

Castle Singers Folk Show To Feature Joy, Nonsense, Love, Work, Devotion

Folk music of four distinct categories — joy and nonsense, devotion, love and work — will be performed by the Castle Singers Tuesday.

Activity tickets will admit students and faculty members to the show, which begins at 8 p.m. in the chapel-auditorium.

In the songs of devotion group, a number of Christmas carols will be sung. A male quartette composed of juniors Pearce Konold, Galen Hora and Art Baker plus sophomore Mel Harper, will perform a Caribbean carol.

Freshman ballerina Jean Beaver will dance during "Poor Wayfaring Stranger," a song that also features junior Darlene Weight as soloist.

Singing work songs, the whole group will present "Tol' My Cap'n," a prison song, and "If I Got My Ticket, Can I Ride?" which spotlights senior soloist Dave Kaiser.

A male chorus will sing "Poor Lonesome Cowboy," "Doney Gal" and "Shenandoah." Hora has the solo in "Shenandoah," and freshman Richard Braun in "Doney Gal."

Sophomore Karen Arns has the solo part in the chamber number, "If I Had a Ribbon Bow." The double quartette will sing the Norwegian folksong "Cari," and the entire group will perform "Pretty Little Miss."

A ballet trio will accompany the solo performance of "Black Is the Color of My True Love's Hair" by freshman Ray Jorgensen. In the only other strictly solo number of the evening, Konold sings "Scarlet Ribbons."

To conclude the program, seven songs of joy and nonsense will be performed. With senior Gerald Buckler as soloist, the male chorus sings the calypso number "Marry a Woman Uglier Than You."

A square dance will provide variety in the performance of "Sourwood Mountain." The entire group winds up the program with "Grandma Grunts," "Polly-wolly-doodle," "Elijah Rock," "Poor Man Lazarus" and "Kathryn's Wedding Day."

X-Rays Available

Faculty and students over 18 may receive free chest X-rays for tuberculosis Monday, March 27, under the sponsorship of the Bremer County Tuberculosis Association.

According to Miss Bertha Mead, school nurse, a mobile X-ray unit will be parked opposite Luther Hall from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Cards for registration may be obtained from Miss Mead's office next week during office hours and must be returned by 8:30 a.m. Monday, March 27.

Four Students To Attend Political Meet This Week

Four Wartburg students will accompany faculty adviser G. R. Bjorgan to a "Politics and the Legislative Process" workshop March 20-21 in Des Moines.

Representing Young Democrats will be junior Joyce

Sponsored by Iowa Citizenship Clearing House, the workshop is bi-partisan, with political scientists, legislators, lobbyists and newsmen of both political parties describing their part in the legislative process.

The Clearing House has announced that Pearce Konold, junior, is an alternate participant in the "Week in Washington" political internship program this year.

College Finishes Eighth Of Seventeen At Iowa Forensic Tourney Last Week

Wartburg finished eighth out of 17 schools at the Iowa Forensic Tournament held at Iowa State Teachers College, Cedar Falls, last weekend.

Junior Meta Fokkena received the most outstanding rating for Wartburg. She was rated Superior, the highest possible award, in oratory. Senior Bob Boettcher received an Excellent in discussion as did senior Bruce Bergquist in poetry reading.

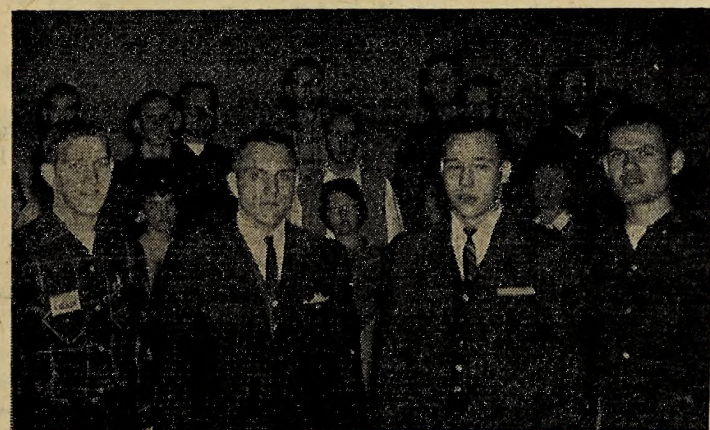

The debate team of freshmen Jim Riesberg and Stan Lillich won four out of four rounds, making their record seven wins and one loss in the last two tournaments.

Froehlich Named To Direct Castle

Miss Froehlich has been assisting present editor Tom Maik with the finishing touches on this year's magazine.

Convos Headline Atomic Energy Film, Religious Drama Of Christ's Passion

A movie and a religious drama will be featured at next week's convo.

On Tuesday "The Atom Comes to Town," a film strip produced by the United States Chamber of Commerce, will be shown. It will survey the peacetime uses of atomic energy.

Topics such as the production of electricity and the use of radioactive materials in diagnosis and treatment of disease will be discussed.

Thursday's convo will feature "Christ in the Concrete City," a drama of the Passion of our Lord Jesus Christ. It will be entirely student run.

Dr. Lee To Join Faculty

Dr. Lee

Dr. Joyce Everson Lee has been appointed instructor of biology at Wartburg College, according to Dr. J. O. Chelle-vold, dean of faculty. She will begin teaching next fall.

Dr. Lee is the wife of Robert E. Lee, director of instrumental music at Wartburg. She is currently interning at St. Luke's Hospital in Cedar Rapids.

In 1956 Dr. Lee received her B.A. from Luther College in Decorah. A native of Wisconsin, she was awarded her M.D. from the University of Wisconsin, Madison, in 1960.

EDITORIAL—

Where There's Smoke . . .

It certainly makes a person wonder.

Holes burned in davenport, long scorch marks on table tops — the Student Memorial Union Lounge is certainly undergoing its ordeal by fire. Ashes the smokers leave behind are from more than just cigarettes — they're the remains of the union furniture.

The carelessness, thoughtlessness and downright meanness of some of the campus smokers is on the verge of officially ending the smoking privilege in the union, according to Dean of Students Earnest Oppermann.

This almost seems the equivalent of taking the pencil away from the first grader who insists on carving his initials in his desk top.

But then, the people who crave so much attention that they must literally make their mark in the world never do grow up.

That such an action has forced itself to be considered is appalling in yet another respect. Every year complaints by the bushel are heard. Improvements can be made here, improvements can be made there.

But demands look pretty weak when they're hidden by smoke from smoldering table tops. Or moving downstairs, they look pretty weak in the light of the new covered candles in the cafeteria. There were 60 of these last fall. Now there are 58.

From the looks of the union, the administration might well heed that old Confucian proverb, "When college tries to be nice, students kick it in teeth."

Definition of "capital punishment:" the duties of the president.

Many want to do away with capital punishment, but no one seems to be trying to outlaw the pop quiz.

If snowplows, tractors and bicycles cut campus, why can't students?

Notice how they put the final day for dropping a course just before mid-semester exam week? Then after tests it's too late to back out.

One junior fellow was considering running for SB president on Dr. White's platform: Exams are a curse to education.

Band Puts Finishing Touches On Tour With Fine Home Concert Performance

By Linda Mugridge

Returning the night before from tour, always an arduous experience, the Wartburg College Concert Band creditably performed in its home concert last Sunday.

The most striking feature running through the 12 numbers on the program was the Band's firm, solid sound. To the ear, the 60-piece Band often seemed to have 80-pieces.

The woodwinds, who were outclassed by the brass section last year, seemed to have gained the upper hand in tonal excellence.

The wide range of music on the program, fittingly opened by a single verse of "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God," should have captured at least one fancy of every person who attended the concert.

The two marches played, "Symphonic March, I Diavoli Rossi" and "March of the Steel Men," clearly showed the Band's grace and precision. Director Robert E. Lee knows how to put style into marches, which are too often approached prosaically.

"Death and Transfiguration" and "Doxology," two tonal numbers, re-emphasized the Band's great strength.

That the instrumental group contains some excellent soloists could be seen not only in solo passages found in most of the numbers but in pieces that featured certain members.

A trio composed of sophomore Dennis Wesenberg and freshmen Marilyn Post and Harold Heeren played "The Three Trumpeters" with easy aplomb. Freshman Allen Mardorf, saxophone soloist in "Nightfall," rated the most applause of the evening.

Four members of the French horn section were spotlighted in "Sioux Panorama," composed by Dr. E. A. Hovdesven

Column To Come

Beginning next week, the Trumpet will feature an intermittent column by senior Dave Jensen on faculty activities outside of school.

The purpose of the column is to give greater recognition to community service done by faculty and staff members and to show how Wartburg and the outer community are linked.

IN DAILY LIVING,

Do Decisions Show Christ?

By Del Klover

What are you living for? What are your goals and aspirations? Are all the decisions — the countless and unending decisions which you make every day — in harmony with a decision for Christ?

In his popular book, "The Cost of Discipleship," the German Christian martyr, Dietrich Bonhoeffer, reminds us that the real trouble with Christian preaching in our day is "that the pure word of Jesus has been overlaid with so much human ballast — burdensome rules and regulations, false hopes and consolations — that it has become extremely difficult to make a genuine decision for Christ."

In what setting is this presence of burdensome regulations and false hopes more prevalent than here on our campus? Admittedly, the regulations and false expectations of Bonhoeffer's life may make those of our own setting appear rather superficial. But to us as students, they are very real indeed.

What do such rules and false expectations have to do with making a decision for Christ?

On the college campus we are so engrossed in a flurry of constant activity and must be so attentive to rules and regulations, that we, especially in times of overbearing pressure and disappointment, lose our Christian perspective in this maze of activity.

Our decisions no longer reflect the will of God, but only our own will. Our lives are no longer God-centered, but self-centered.

Is it hard for you to be a Christian? Not necessarily.

When you have turned to Jesus and received full forgiveness of all your sins, there is planted in your heart a profound gratitude and deep love for the Savior.

Then being a Christian becomes just as easy as cutting campus, for then your own will falls into line with the will of God. Then it is a real privilege for you to bring everything to God in prayer; then it is a joy for you to give yourself in service for Christ and your fellowmen.

However, even the true

Christian cannot entirely forsake his old sinful nature, and here is where the struggle comes in. You must fight your old inclinations, and this involves pain and hardship. "The spirit is willing, but the flesh is weak."

But you as a conscientious college student must not be frightened away from the Christian life because of its hardships. Fight, and eagerly meet the challenges of Christian life just as we meet the challenges of opposing teams in contests.

Remember that to BELIEVE in Christ is not enough. You must LIVE in Christ and reflect His Spirit in all that you do.

Briner

Knights 'n' Daze

Many moons ago, there was printed in this column a tentative program for a Washington minstrel show. It was suggested that such a show, featuring the leading figures on the national scene, would keep the people informed while at the same time the proceeds could be used to defray the national debt.

The other day someone remarked to me that, with all the activity in Washington, the program had gone seriously out of date. We put our heads together, and this is the new program which we suggest:

1. "BROTHER CAN YOU Spare A Dime?" — Dean Rusk delivers a musical memorandum on the contents of the latest American fiscal proposal to the Republic of Germany. Konrad Adenauer paraphrases the German reply with a remarkable soft-shoe rendition of "Deutschland Uber Alles."

2. DICK NIXON, BARRY Goldwater and Nelson Rockefeller tune up for a fine show of Republican harmony.

Goldwater and Rockefeller lament the outcome of the recent elections with the words of the old favorite, "Goody, Goody!" Nixon sings an interesting counter melody, "It Only Hurts For A Little While."

3. "CHAIN GANG" — The men's chorus of the General Electric Company describes in glowing tones of song the company's new rest and recreation center for top management personnel.

4. "THE BEST THINGS In Life Are Free" — We regret that the star performer of this number has been unavoidably detained. However, we present for your approval, direct from Fort Leavenworth, a recording of this number as sung by Mrs. Bernice Geiger.

5. "THEY'RE RIOTING In Africa" — The Kingston Trio made this one famous. Tonight's guest star, fresh from an oral pedectomy at Walter Reed Hospital, lends a note of authority to the lyrics. Williams' tar and feathers sport suit is by courtesy of the European residents of Africa.

6. "SIDE BY SIDE" — Messrs. Sullivan and Paar have agreed to present an unusual feature. Tonight, before this very audience, they will settle their disagreements in the only gentlemanly way possible. (Five rounds, Marquis of Queensbury Rules, for the Featherweight (mentality) Championship of the World.)

7. "HIGH SOCIETY" — As the grand finale of the show, the entire cast joins forces to salute the President who brought culture back to the capital. Solos are done by Robert Frost, Sammy Davis, Jr., Leonard Bernstein, Peter Lawford, Oleg Cassini and Frank Sinatra. How's that for culture?

Meaning Of Life Sought, Found At Chapel Services

As an idealistic freshman first entering college in 1957, I, for one, was looking for great things in the long four years that stretched ahead.

One of these "things" I naively expected was that here at Wartburg College I would find the means to become a "real" Christian, discovering the answers and the motivation for living up to what was wanted, expected and even demanded by the religion with which I identified myself.

Did I find it? Did you find it? Well, I'm not answering that question. But I did find one unexpected source to aid in what turned out to be a never-ending and never-final search.

Here at Wartburg I found that I could get a preview of the men who were to lead my theological bents. I could listen to an always different and usually unique presentation of some aspect of my God and His plans for me.

I didn't have to wait for some supreme feeling of "holiness" — I didn't even have to be religiously keyed up — I didn't have to spend hours trying to get my thoughts down to a workable, organized expression. It was done daily for me — weekly, monthly and yearly for eight semesters and all I had to do was sit and relax.

I like our chapel services.

Sincerely,
Mary Heuer

Cindermen At TC In Season Opener

Cindermen open their season against Iowa State Teachers College and Grinnell at a triangular indoor meet at TC this afternoon.

Both squads are tough, with TC featuring a great deal of team balance and depth. Grinnell also has a good squad which features a man who has pole vaulted over 13 feet and a high jumper who has gone 6 feet 2 inches.

Wartburg has several performers who could do well at the meet with good individual efforts.

They are Eddie Skay in the 60-yard dash, Chuck Wallin in the shot put, Dixon Zander in the pole vault, Jerry Schara and Len Schmidt in the high jump, John Niemeyer in the hurdles, Rick Columbus in the broad jump and his brother Lothar in the 880 and the mile. TC's indoor track squad has been undefeated this year in several meets against tough competition, according to David Olson, track coach.

Last Saturday TC beat South Dakota State, Morningside and Augustana of Sioux Falls, S.D., by a score of 77-35½-12½-5½.

Knobloch's Team On Top As Bowling Rolls Along

Baseball Coach Satisfied With Outlook Of Season

DON SOWERS TAKES a swat at the wiffleball as Don Lehmann concentrates on other action. The Oppiemen are keeping the gymnasium busy.

Coach Earnest Oppermann reported this week that he was optimistic about this year's baseball squad.

"Although it's too early to say anything for sure," he said, "prospects appear to be very good."

He also said that the squad would have to get outside before he could say anything about team hitting or speed.

CHALK TALK

By Tom Kuckkahn

The flooded sidewalks are a clear indication that spring is in the air and the baseball season is once again upon us.

Pressure is on Coach Earnest Oppermann and his squad this year, because with most of the experienced squad members returning, this is supposed to be "the year" for the Oppiemen.

Indoor drills, marked by an extremely exuberant spirit, have begun. One of last year's mainstays has failed to report. Since the deadline is past, it should be interesting to see if he dons a uniform this year.

Student apathy in student government has been the subject of much discussion the past few weeks, but has anyone considered the apathy in the athletic department concerning participation on spring sports teams?

This year's track squad has only 19 candidates, and many of those are freshmen. Well, at least we can support the squad by attending the meets.

Does anyone remember Ken Joens? The ex-Wartburg basketball player is making a name for himself at Texas Lutheran College. The "Lone Star Lutheran" reports that Ken saw a lot of action this past season as he helped the squad tremendously with his rebounding prowess.

Some students are interested in improving the present athletic facilities. The following "thoughtful" gems were listed on the preliminary student body project ballot: construct an indoor swimming pool and a bowling alley on campus. Sounds fascinating, anyway.

Attention, Don Ringgenberg: You've been doing such a fine job on I.M.'s, especially the coed end of the program, that more and better ideas are coming in continually.

Looking backward, the varsity basketball team recently elected Marv Ott honorary captain for the 1960-61 season.

Suggestion of the week: Now that volleyball is in full swing, wouldn't it be a blast to watch the faculty wives and Wartburg coeds battle each other in a volleyball game?

Question of the week: Who is going to be the tennis coach?
Prediction of the week: The Braves will bounce back to regain the national league championship.
Thought of the week: Quit writing!

Cafeteria Runs Big Business

By Chuck Jepsen

Wartburg's cafeteria is big business. It has to be to feed over eight hundred hungry mouths 20 times a week.

The caf, as it is commonly called, is one of the biggest campus employers of students. Over 115 checks ranging in value from $1.85 to about $210 for the first semester were given to students, according to Mrs. Henry Grube, cafeteria manager.

Students' jobs range from peeling potatoes, frying eggs and carrying in milk to cleaning up the cafeteria on Saturday. Students do almost everything except actually prepare the main portion of the meal.

In addition to this large corps of students, four full-time and two part-time breakfast and lunch cooks and four evening cooks are employed. Each of the full-time employees puts in more than six hours of work a day.

Big business is also witnessed by the volume of food consumed at each meal. For instance, did you know we eat 300-350 pounds of potatoes at a sitting?

For breakfast 75-80 dozen rolls are eaten, and each day students gulp 90-120 gallons of milk.

Certain innovations have

"ONE OR TWO?"

The perennial question is byword at the cafeteria, where 300-350 pounds of potatoes are eaten at a single sitting.

been attempted this year to help improve the service. Many have been pleased to eat pancakes for breakfast.

According to Mrs. Grube the experiment is working out fairly well.

To enhance the atmosphere of special dress-up evenings, such as the Christmas dinner, new candles were placed on the tables for decoration.

The occasions were partially marred because two of the candles were stolen.

"There were 60 candles at the start," said Mrs. Grube. "The first two times I put them out two were taken. So if I put them out 60 times, I wouldn't have any candles left."

The regular dining room holds approximately 220 people. Additional room is available in the private dining room, which also is frequently used by student organizations and faculty committees.

Equipment ranges from bake ovens and large grills to automatic dishwashers, whose sprays often seem to be the center of student water fights.

The cafeteria serves partially as a social center. Many discussions travel back and forth over lumps of potatoes.

Wartburg's caf serves a multitude of functions, including class meetings and other organization get-togethers. But it has a full-time task keeping students supplied with enough to eat.

Four Freshmen Will Give Recital Sunday Afternoon

Four freshmen will give a recital tomorrow at 4 p.m. in the chapel-auditorium.

Rosalie Gutknecht, Hazen, N.D., will present Beethoven's "1st Movement of Sonata in E flat, Op. 7," plus two pieces by Debussy from "Pour le Piano" and "Etude in F Minor" by Chopin.

Karen Kruger, Holland, will play four piano pieces from Schumann's "Forest Scenes."

Another pianist, Jayne Christensen of Dewitt, will play "Sonata in F, Op. 10, No. 2" by Beethoven, two numbers by Brahms, "Intermezzo" and "Capriccio," three pieces by Poulenc and "Peasant Dance" by Rudolph Ganz.

Doreen Oldaker, Harvey, Ill., the only vocalist in the recital, will sing "Un certo non so che" by Vivaldi, "Ah! mio cor" by Handel and "Una voce pocofa" from "Barber of Seville" by Rossini.

Senior Bill Goetz Gets $6,600 Grant

Senior Bill Goetz, Dubuque, has been granted a National Defense Education Act award worth $6,600 at the University of Iowa, Iowa City.

The award will cover three years of graduate study in philosophy leading to the doctorate degree. Goetz, a National Merit scholar, is a consistent honor roll student at Wartburg.

Coeds To Participate In Program Tonight

Three Wartburg coeds will participate in the Wa-tan-ye style show tonight.

Sophomores Charlotte Wittmann and Dorothy Carstensen will model, and freshman Jean Beaver will do a dance number at the show, which begins at 8 p.m. in Knights Gymnasium.

Entitled "Prelude to Spring," the program will feature the newest in spring fashions by a number of Waverly clothing stores. Money raised by the show will be used by the club for a scholarship.

Vetter Will Visit

Donald A. Vetter, principal and education director of First Lutheran Christian Day School, Blue Island, Ill., will be on campus visiting a number of classes March 20.

Vetter will speak to those elementary education majors intending to enter Christian day school teaching.

Junior Class To Present Variety Program Friday

Drama, humor, jazz, comedy and dance will be featured at the Variety Night scheduled for next Friday evening. Sponsored by the junior class, the program will be in the chapel-auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

Junior Bob Picker at piano will lead a jazz trio. Junior Bette Slater will present a dramatic reading, "Yellow Wallpaper."

Vocal soloists include freshman Steve Smith, and juniors Rich Rosenmayer and Carol Schrage.

Juniors Leon Oltmann and Terry Schneider will provide the comedy with humorous skits.

Arlyn Fuerst, sophomore, will present a piano selection, "Autumn Leaves," and junior Diane Hart will sing and play the accordion.

The dance portion is to feature freshman Jean Beaver doing a ballet.

An impersonation of Louie Armstrong will be given by senior Ed Schader.

Masters of ceremonies for the program are sophomore Fred Dierks and junior Bob Johannsen.
